

Checking where a template is used

To check in which modifications a template is currently used:

1. In the Frosmo Control Panel, in the sidebar, select Modifications.
2. Select the Templates tab.
3. In the templates list, find the template whose usage you want to check, and click the template name.
4. Check the template usage in the right-hand panel. The panel lists the modifications that currently use the template grouped according to modification status (active, upcoming, past, inactive, invalid). You can access the settings of a modification by clicking the modification name.

The screenshot shows a modal window with two main sections. On the left, there is a form with a 'Name*' field containing 'Home page - Hero banner' and a 'Description' field which is empty. On the right, there is a panel titled 'Used in the following modifications:'. This panel is divided into two sections: 'Active' and 'Inactive'. Under 'Active', there is one entry: 'Home page - Hero banner'. Under 'Inactive', there is one entry: 'Home page - Campaign banner'. The 'Active' section and its entry are highlighted with an orange border.

5. When you're done, click Close.
